UNDERGARMENT WITH A WEIGHT SUSPENSION MEANS

United States Patent 8801494

Inventors: Muyiwa Olumide

Abstract: The various embodiments herein describe a women's undergarment comprising a strapless bra having a body portion with a pair of bust cups extending upwardly from a lower chest band, an underwire support frame provided on the chest band extending to the sides of the bra, two inner bra pads suspended in the bust cups, two straps attached to each of the inner bra pad, a loop provided on sides of the bra for passage of the strap, a panty, a support fabric provided inside the panty and an attachment means provided on one end of the strap for attaching the bra to the support fabric. The straps attached to the support fabric exerts a pulling force on the support fabric causing an upward lift of the support fabric thereby distributing the weight of breasts to lower buttocks and upper thighs of the user.

STRAPLESS BRA FOR SUSPENDING BREASTS OF WOMEN

United States Patent 20140004771

Inventors: Muyiwa Olumide

Abstract: The various embodiments herein provide a strapless bra for suspending the breasts. The strapless bra comprises a pair of inner cups for supporting each breast at the bottom, a pair of outer cups for supporting the pair of inner cups, two straps for lifting and suspending the breasts, a hinge for holding the straps up and suspending the breasts, a weight transfer device for redirecting a downward pressure to a horizontal pressure and a hinge connected to the weight transfer device for keeping the breasts suspended up and a band for wrapping the strapless bra around the women body. A fastening system is adopted in the band for attaching both the ends of the band securely. The straps are pulled out from the pair of inner cups and pulled down for lifting the pair of inner cups and suspending the breasts.
